Title of winning work: "The Friendship in the Magic Forest"

Brief description of the activity (3-5 lines):

At the Ethnography Museum students painted ceramic pots in a creative workshop. At the Natural Sciences Museum they visited the Planetarium, watched a film and modeled planets from plasticine. At the Art Museum students explored artworks with guidance from a museographer. Workshop: students planted flowers in painted pots with children in need and donated them (this activity has not been carried out until now). Students published the fable "The Friendship in the Magic Forest" in an e-book.

2. Experience & Learning

- What did you enjoy most about this activity?

We enjoyed painting ceramic pots and modeling the planets from plasticine because we like to be creative. It was fascinating to discover the Universe at the Planetarium. It was amazing to explore the nature into beautiful artworks. We love to plant flowers with new friends and share kindness. We are proud to publish our fable “The Friendship in the Magic Forest” online and see our ideas come to life.

- What new skills or knowledge did you gain?

We learned to be more creative in art and writing by painting ceramic pots and modeling the Planets with plasticine. We discovered new things about planets and nature, practiced teamwork and kindness, and gained digital skills by publishing our fable online.

- How will this experience help you in developing your talent further?

This experience helps us to be more creative through painting, modeling, and writing. It teaches us teamwork, empathy, and feeling confident to share our ideas through art, science, and stories. We want to develop our talents to make a better and happier world.
