1. Winner(s) and Activity

Name(s) of winner(s): Classe 2°E, Istituto Comprensivo Primo Levi di Impruneta, FIRENZE - Italia. Docenti: Ghiotti Francesca, Pecci Giulia

Title of winning work: "NEL BUIO DELLE CAVERNE NASCE LA LUCE DELLA COMUNICAZIONE"

Brief description of the activity (3-5 lines): We have seen examples of rock art understood as the first form of communication of humanity, which comes together feeling the need to do so, and the children created scenes of prehistoric life using coffee, cocoa, and spices, that is, natural colors. Finally, an artistic workshop is planned in continuity on the discovery of the four elements (water, fire, air, earth).

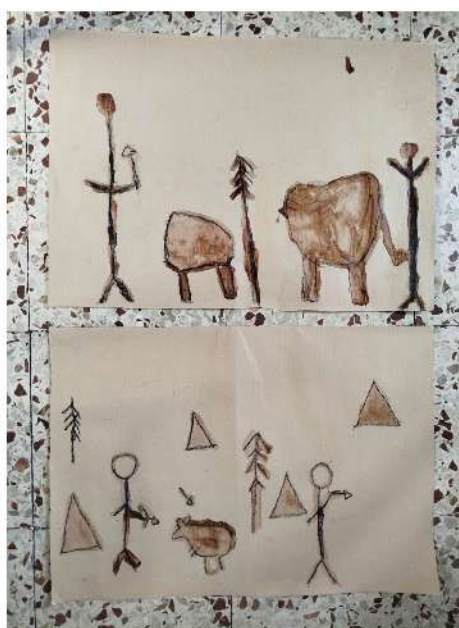

2. Experience & Learning

- What did you enjoy most about this activity? The children enthusiastically participated with tenacious commitment in activities of drawing and painting, feeling part of a group. Happy, they understood that everyone can communicate in a thousand different ways what they want to share, even through art. The experience of immersing themselves in rock art was fun, even just touching and then painting using spices, cocoa, and coffee, and smelling the aromas.
- What new skills or knowledge did you gain? The first enrichment was at a relational level because the children felt part of a whole. The experience helped to collaborate and taught that by respecting the rules and communicating, one becomes a conscious citizen.
- How will this experience help you in developing your talent further? Children will understand that for a proper civil life and for belonging to a community, it is essential to respect rules, the environment, and others in their diversity in every context and during any type of activity. Furthermore, it will improve the interaction among themselves and with adults thanks to the sharing of ideas and communication. The concept of collective identity will be strong and important for their growth.
